World's first AI bookkeeper fits into your pocket

Veryfi's AI-mobile apps are right there on your phone, automating bookkeeping data entry and categorization, simplifying job costing, and connecting the field and office to provide financial stakeholders the data they need in real time. All in less time than it takes to read that paragraph.

Veryfi's advanced AI means that it learns how users like things done and then always does them that way. Every time a customer uploads a receipt, records mileage or time on project, Veryfi gains new insights. And because it's always learning, it's always getting smarter. And its continuous integration/continuous deployment process means that customers never have to wait to take advantage of new features.

Highly secure and HIPAA and GDPR compliant, Veryfi is relied upon by thousands of small businesses, contractors, and freelancers in the United States. This Y Combinator graduate is also trusted by global organizations such as JLL, Microsoft, and Shell. In fact, it's the only company in its space that doesn't expose user information to outsiders by outsourcing data entry to third parties.

Microsoft
for Startups

“Building a company based on cutting-edge AI technology requires absolute confidence in a platform and provider. With Azure and Microsoft, we never have to worry about our product or support.”

— Ernest Semerda, Cofounder, Veryfi
